Wood Pile Before Meal For all Transients Here

The bi-weekly meeting of the City Council was held Tuesday evening with all members in attendance.

After the adoption of the minutes of last meeting, a letter was read from J. M. Campbell respecting the purchase of property. Letter filed.

The secretary of the Community Hospital reported the names of Wetaskiwin patients admitted to the hospital. Filed.

The report of the Alberta Assessment Commission on the appeal of the Imperial Oil Co. against their assessment was read. They were allowed a reduction of $700.00.

A medical account for attendance to a transient from Edmonton was referred to the Chief of Police who addressed the Council, with instructions that it be forwarded to the Edmonton Council.

Chief McIlhenny brought up the question of feeding transients, and after a general discussion it was suggested that pole wood be hauled in from the country, and only those who would cut wood be fed. Matter left with relief committee and Chief of Police, with power to act.

Curt Smith addressed Council asking that some work be done on the road from the Driad corner north to the highway. Undoubtedly this would have a tendency to improve the business of Wetaskiwin, as many tourists would then come into the city. Mr. Smith was informed that Council had the maintenance go over the road several times this year and the road would be kept in a reasonably passable condition.

C. W. Dingman wrote re expenses at gas well, and after deliberation, letter was filed.

A building permit was granted to Albert Rodell to improve shed. The matter of inspecting the dairy herds supplying milk to Wetaskiwin was referred to the license committee for investigation and report.

A notice was authorized to be published in The Times informing the public that everyone caught destroying or picking flowers at the park will be prosecuted.

Accounts totalling $1020.31 and firemen's payroll of $25.00 were passed for payment.

The license committee was instructed to confer with the City Solicitor and bring in an amendment to the license bylaw covering slot machines, and to have the amendment introduced at next meeting.

Ald. Ellis suggested that the license committee review all the bylaws of the city and have them revised in time to be effective on January 1st next. The Council instructed the license committee to do this.

The report of Chief of Police McIlhenny for July was read and filed. Ald. Scott submitted a report of the fire department, which was received and filed. It was also agreed to purchase a few new fire trucks.

The committee recommended that Dave Baker be fire chief, which was approved. Firemen will be paid $1.00 a practice, up to four practices a year.

The Council will meet as a Court of Revision on the assessment on Tuesday evening.

It was agreed that a wreath be procured for the late Mrs. Baker, and a letter of condolence be sent to Mr. Baker, fire chief, which was to be procured from Wallace Scott.

Meeting adjourned after several questions of minor importance were discussed.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY HAIL IN CITY AREA

Edmonton, July 28.—Doing damage over a wide area, flattening out crops, laying waste flower gardens and vegetable plots, breaking windows by the hundreds, smothering through tops of autos and roofs of buildings, and generally laying waste the territory it traversed, one of the worst hail storms in the history of Edmonton district was experienced on Thursday night.

In North Edmonton gardens were cut down as with a scythe. In the home of Jan Holmes 14 windows were broken, the hallstones all being of enormous size.

"I don't know how big they were but you couldn't put them into a cup," said Holmes.

The Klondike Gardens greenhouse, a block away from the Holmes residence, had hardly a whole pane of glass left, while the plants in the greenhouse were whipped to shreds. Similar damage was reported from the greenhouses at Oliver, and Calder gardens also suffered.

Alberta, Crowfoot with summer cottagers are holidaying at the Lac Ste. Anne resort, was the centre of the storm area. There half-stones of enormous size beat down everything before them. Kramer's hotel roof was practically demolished as the heavy hailstones pounded their way through. A Blue Line taxi bus had holes the size of saucers torn through the roof. At Alberta Beach one boy had his thumb split open when struck by a hailstone. Windows were smashed in, and seagulls were lying dead along the beach, and even fish were killed.

WETASKIWIN WINNERS AT WORLD'S GRAIN FAIR

The Wetaskiwin district was again brought into prominence last week when five prizes at the World's Grain Conference were awarded to exhibitors from this community. All the principal grain growing countries of the world had samples in the competition, and the winning of prizes in this big event is no small accomplishment.

In the white oats class there were sixty prizes, and in this event, Edmond Soderstrom was awarded eleventh, L. C. Anderson, of Bittern Lake 12th and Nels Linden 29th.

In the six rowed barley Trebil type, Nels Linden won 9th and L. C. Anderson, of Bittern Lake 15th.

We compliment the winners in making such a good showing against the world's best grain growers.

BANK OF ENGLAND

London's newest fortress is the Bank of England. When the building is completed, the bank will be unable to harm and high explosive shells will be useless against its walls. "Fortification" of the bank has been in progress since 1923 and it will be another three years before it is completed. Originally it was intended to take about twelve years to make it the strongest fortress in the British Isles at a cost of about $25,000,000.

NELS LINDEN

Wetaskiwin's Grain King, who won prizes for both oats and barley at the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference.

SLIGHT RIFT WAS CAUSE OF ADJOURNMENT

London, July 31.—Negotiations for a wheat restriction scheme took a turn for the better over the weekend and prospects were brightened for an agreement, virtually satisfactory to all, exporters and producers might have been reached. There was just a suggestion of a rift, it was explained, and an adjournment until August 2nd was agreed upon.

Since that time there have been informal conversations which were understood to have consolidated the big four more strongly than ever. Canada and Argentina were said to both strongly favor a restriction of acreage, while Australia was declared to be willing to cut exports.

A DUTCHMAN'S ADDRESS TO HIS DOG

"You was only a dog, but when you go to bed you shut turn around three times and lay down; ven I go to bed I have to look de place, vind up my neck, put out de cat, andress myself, scold my wife, walk mit de baby, and den maybe ven I gets myself to bed, it is time to get up. Ven you get up, you shunt stretch yourself, scratch your neck a little, and you vas up. I hat to light de fire, put on de kiddie, scrap some wild my wife, and git myself some breakfast. You play around all day and have plenty of fun. I hat to work all day and have plenty trouble. You die you vas dead; ven I die I haf to go to hell yet."

Teacher: A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer. Student: That explains why I fail in my exams.

Alberta's victories were scored in wheat—including the "Wheat King" alfalfa, sweet clover and timothy. Ontario took its awards in flint corn, field peas, field beans, clover seed and grasses.

Saskatchewan took first honors in classes in barley, buckwheat, foxtail, flax and grasses, with the famed wheat growing province getting into many of the top wheat awards but not winning a first place. Manitoba's three firsts were scored in wheat, oats and the grasses.

Victories in flint corn and buckwheat gave New Brunswick its two wins. While Australia scored in white spring wheat, Prince Edward Island in the grasses, Northern Ireland in flax and Siam in rice.

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN POPULAR MAIL CARRIER

A few evenings ago about sixty of time friends gathered at the home of Mr. Nick Davidson in town and gave him a surprise party on the occasion of his retiring from the farm and taking up his residence in Wetaskiwin. The delightful time was spent during the evening in various forms of amusement, and lunch was served which was enjoyed by all. Mr. Davidson was made the recipient of a handsome mantle clock, and Bill, Doris, Lud and Sylvia were also remembered in a very appropriate manner. The presentation was made by Mr. Fred Kaiser, and Mr. Davidson suitably replied, referring to the many close friendships which had existed during the many years he had resided in the community.

Obituary

MRS. DAVID BAKER

A gloom was cast over the community Tuesday when it was learned that Mrs. Mary Jane, beloved wife of David Baker, had passed away at the Community hospital, where she underwent a major operation a few days previously. She was aged thirty-nine years, eight months and five days. The late Mrs. Baker was a native of this district, having been born at Battle River, and moved to Wetaskiwin with her parents, the late Ben and Mrs. Shantz, when a small girl, and was raised and educated here. In March, 1912, she was married to her sorrowful husband and took her place in the life of the community, being particularly active in work of the former Presbyterian church and later in the United church. She was a member of the Women's Association and the choir, as well as being a member of the Order of the Royal Purple.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband, one daughter, Oriole, two sons, Earl and Ross, her mother, who resides in Edmonton, four brothers, Ben at Penhold, Richard and Christian at Rocky Mountain House, and John at Red Deer, and three sisters, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Fransen and Helen at Edmonton, besides a number of aunts and uncles and a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral will take place in the First United church on Thursday afternoon, and the interment will be in the Wetaskiwin cemetery.

THE SPREAD BETWEEN WHEAT AND BREAD

The Northwestern Miller takes up the cudgels in defence of the flour-millers over the accusation that there is too great a spread between the price of wheat and the price of bread. It contends that this spread in terms of the consumer's dollar is made up as follows:

- |                            |     |
|----------------------------|-----|
| Farmer                     | 13c |
| Transportation             | 10c |
| Grain handling and storage | 10c |
| Mills                      | 10c |
| Baker                      | 10c |
| Grocer                     | 15c |

The Northwestern Miller further states that the baker's toll, that is to say, 60 cents, is made up of 41.2 per cent ingredient and 58.8 per cent service cost.

MORE AEROPLANE PASSENGERS

The skyways of North America are being "double tracked." A survey of major air lines carrying passengers to every corner of America—and one of them planning to extend across the ocean—shows that commercial aviation has increased its passenger income by one-third in recent weeks.

The reason: Renewed activity in general business and the fact that aviation men call "air travel" by the public.

The result: A battle for the new business comparable to that of the railroads several decades ago. In the scramble for passengers, millions of dollars have been poured into new equipment. Soundproof cabins have been evolved by United Air Lines. American Airways has resorted with ships in which passengers can sleep on comfortable berths during night trips between Chicago and the Pacific Coast.

A smaller line, Northwest Airways, has ordered a fleet of planes capable of 215 miles an hour with a cruising speed of 180 and announced a plan to compete for business between Chicago and the Pacific northwest.

At the coast, Northwest will connect with Pan American Airways, which plan to extend its present lines to Alaska across the Arctic to Asia. At present, Northwest operates between Chicago and Montana and northward to Winnipeg, Man.

As proof of increasing business the Chicago municipal airport announced that 6,927 passengers were carried on regularly scheduled trips during June, an increase of 100 per cent from a year ago.

Many licensed pilots have obtained their licenses in the past few months, and air line officials announced, because of additional planes placed on scheduled lines.

Trips between Chicago and New York have been doubled by three lines. A traveller between the two cities now has a choice of more than 20 planes daily, the time of the schedule ranging upward from four and three-quarters hours eastbound to five and one-half hours westbound.

FINE AND COOLER

Magistrate (in traffic court): "I'll let you off with a fine this time, but another day I'll send you to jail."

Driver: "Sort of a weather forecast."

Magistrate: "What do you mean?"

Driver: "Fine today—cooler tomorrow."

Monthly statement was read and adopted.

A petition by residents of the area affected by stock by-law No. 2-1917 was presented requesting Council to submit by-law to the vote. As sufficient resident ratepayers had signed a petition, the Council moved that a poll be held on the 11th day of August, 1933, in Ties restaurant, Muhurst, and that an A. Dowler be appointed returning officer to conduct the poll. Carried.

A letter from the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. was read, requesting compensation for area taken for roadway in sections 25-45-28-4. Motion by Coun. Unland that the Company be compensated at the rate of $11.00 per acre for the W. 1/2 and S.E. 1/4 and $15.00 per acre on the N.E. 1/4 of 25-45-28-4. Motion was carried.

BROWNLEE TO BE MEMBER FINANCE BODY

Edmonton, July 31.—Premier J. B. Brownlee will act as a member of the banking and financing commission, now in the process of organization by Premier R. B. Bennett.

Announcement to this effect was made by the Premier himself, speaking at Inla in the Ponoka constituency which he represents in the legislature.

While Premier Brownlee will not relinquish the reins as head of the government, it is expected he will be engaged for a considerable portion of the next three months in the inquiry.

The commission has as its purpose a full and complete inquiry into the whole question of banking and finance in Canada.

The inquiry has been brought about by the periodic revision of the Bank Act, due at the last session of Parliament, and by the widespread demand for a revision of the monetary system of the Dominion.

Lord Macmillan, of the Judicial committee of the Privy Council, and regarded as one of the ablest economists in the world, will sit as chairman of the commission.

Premier Bennett has been anxious to have Hon. Mr. Brownlee serve on the commission, on account of his thorough familiarity with the financial problems of Alberta and the whole west, due to the similarity of conditions in Alberta and those of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The close association of the premier with wheat pool finances has also given him a close insight into the problems of the agricultural industry which fit him to make a contribution to the inquiry.

3,000 REINDER WERE DRIVEN 3,000 MILES IN THREE YEARS

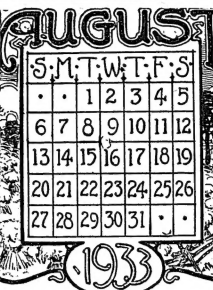

The old-time drives of the thundering herds of longhorn steers from the plains of Texas to the bluffs of Montana was eclipsed by the greatest herd drive in history by 3,000 reindeer were taken over 3,000 miles of trackless wilderness from the Bering Sea to the Mackenzie river delta, the drive lasting three years.

The reindeer were bought from the famous herd of the Lomax brothers, of Kotzebue, Alaska, by the Canadian government in order to establish the reindeer among the Eskimos at the Arctic coast.

Two explorers, R. T. Porath and E. Porath, were in charge of the drive, which crossed mountains, crossed rivers, and passed through forests, flooded rivers, blizzards, and muds.

"Everything that's bought goes to the buyer, doesn't it?"

"No. Some things such as coal, go to the cellar."

Vegreville Editor Publishes Opinion of McPherson Case in the "Observer" Columns

Brother Horton, editor of the Vegreville Observer, has the following to say re the Hon. O. L. McPherson case:

"The judgement, or decision, of Mr. Justice Ford in the McPherson case was just about what the public generally expected. There was little likelihood from the start that the divorce would be annulled and as the case proceeded and the mass of conflicting evidence was presented before the court, the opinion was confirmed that the judge could not very well do otherwise than conclude that the divorce was granted on valid grounds. A Scotch verdict was given as to the matter of collusion, Mr. Justice Ford hinting strongly that the divorce was granted on valid grounds. A Scotch verdict was given as to the matter of collusion, Mr. Justice Ford hinting strongly that the divorce was granted on valid grounds. A Scotch verdict was given as to the matter of collusion, Mr. Justice Ford hinting strongly that the divorce was granted on valid grounds."

"The Observer's opinion is that the whole thing constitutes a disgraceful episode in Alberta. All four of the main parties concerned, namely, Hon. O. L. McPherson, Mrs. Cora McPherson, Mrs. Helen McPherson, and Leroy Mattern, came out of it with tarnished reputations. What makes it all the worse is that everyone of these parties is a person of the first flush of youth. Excuse me, but I can be found for mistakes made by young people through passion, but it is a tough job to condone such conduct on the part of those verging on middle age. Still, perhaps it proves the old adage that 'There's no fool like an old fool'."

"Now, the Observer confesses to a very considerable liking for Mr. McPherson, both personally and as a public man. Despite the fact that he opposes him politically, we regard him as an able administrator of his department (highway investigations) to the contrary notwithstanding. He has, we believe, always enjoyed an excellent reputation and has apparently fully deserved the confidence given him by his constituency. For Mr. McPherson to become involved in such a scandal in his private life was almost unbelievable."

"A year ago, in talking this matter over with an important party who had had considerable inside information, he expressed the opinion that Mr. McPherson was being victimized. He said, 'The fact is, the McPherson in this matter is a plain sap'."

"This snap judgement of last year coincides pretty closely with public opinion today. The pressure of public business, the demands made on his time, the cares and worries incident to his position, all combined to bring about an unfortunate laxity in his private life and to this laxity, the incredibly foolish conduct of his wife (Cora) made a large contribution. Mr. McPherson was a sap. He had things go which normally he would have frowned upon and, between one thing and another, he fell—there is no other word for it."

"Now is it a reflection on Mr. McPherson's intelligence, integrity or ability to call him a sap in this particular matter. Other men of even greater ability and holding higher positions than he, have fallen for such the same cause."

"Politics aside, one must feel sorry that a public man, holding a high position and greatly esteemed by the people he served, permitted himself to get into such an unavoury mess."

"We regret to say that this business must finish Mr. McPherson's public career. Judgement or no judgement, it is axiomatic in British politics (upon which our Canadian politics are based), that when a public man becomes involved in a private scandal, he forthwith resigns from public life; and that whether he is innocent or guilty, if he does not resign, he is pushed out, and this seems to put it up to Premier Brownlee."

"The most striking instance of a similar affair in British politics is that of Charles Parnell, who some forty years ago when leader of the Irish party in the British House of Commons, was co-responsible in the Mrs. O'Shea divorce proceedings. It finished Parnell. He was forced out of public life and the Irish cause was irreparably damaged for years. We can, if called upon, give other instances; some in Canadian public life. In every case the public men involved had to quit."

"Mr. McPherson must go."

"Perhaps the saddest feature of the case is the plight in which the unhappy woman, Mrs. Cora McPherson is placed. For years, she enjoyed equally with her husband, the respect and esteem of the community at Vulcan, where their home was. The Observer is informed that the McPherson home was justly considered a model happy household. She bore his children; she brought them up carefully and well; she was considered an exemplary wife and mother."

"Transplanted to Edmonton and in the midst of the somewhat curious social life existing at the Capital, her nature seemed to undergo a change. The intrusion of the Matterns into the McPherson household marked the beginning of the end. One does not need to review the matters brought out at the recent trial, to agree that Mrs. Cora McPherson at the best, was an extremely silly woman. The most charitable judgement is that, for time being at least, she was half crazy. She saw her husband's affections being gradually alienated; she was seemingly helpless to assert her authority as joint head of the household; she yielded, in circumstances beyond her power to control; she turned to Leroy Mattern for the love and comfort denied her by her husband. Mattern, to his eternal discredit, took advantage of a woman's weakness and then basely deserted her when she needed him most. It is a sickening picture."

"Today, Cora McPherson is, so we are told, in domestic service or something like that, dependent more or less on the kindness of friends. She is paying a bitter price for her temporary infatuation. What wonder that she looks back with longing to the happy days at Vulcan, when she was the honored wife of an able and godly man who was a leader in his community?"

"Much has been said recently, especially by Mr. McPherson to the effect that the recent court action was instigated by the Liberals of Alberta in an effort to bound him out of public life. Mr. McPherson's apparent viewpoint is that he is undergoing a degree of persecution."

"But 'The Liberals had nothing to do with importing the Matterns and placing them in the McPherson household.'"

"The Liberals had nothing to do

THE MAN WHO FANNED CASEY

I'm just an ordinary fan and I don't count for much, but I'm for writing history with a true and honest touch. It isn't often that I knock, I'll put you next to that, but I must interpose a word on Casey at the bat."

Oh, yes, I'll come across; the poem is a beauty. Been running through my thinker since our team got on the shoot. I heard an actor fan recite it thirteen years ago. He sort of introduced it in the progress of the show."

It made a hit from gallery down to parquetry floor. But now I've got to thinking and that poem makes me sore. I'd like to know why any fan could be so off his nut About the mighty Casey who proved himself a mut."

The score, we're told, stood four to two, one inning left to play. Which proved that the Frogtown twirler had things coming all his way."

So, in the ninth, with two men down, he loomed up a bit. And Flynn scratched out a single, Blake let loose a two-base hit."

Then, up from the stands and bleachers, there arose a mighty roar. They wanted just that little bit they knew would be the score. And at the bat was Casey, mighty Casey, Mudville's pride. But was the Frogtown slabster sent ballooning terrified?"

Now in the ninth with two men down and Casey at the bat Most pitchers would have let him walk, we are all sure of that. But Hagan was a hero, he was made of sterner stuff, He knew the time had come for him to play the winning role."

He heard the fans a-yelling and it was music to his soul. He saw the gleam of confidence in mighty Casey's eyes. And then resolved, "I'll strike him out, I'll do it or I'll die."

He stood alone and friendless in that wild and friendless throng— There wasn't even one kind word to boost his game along. But back in Frogtown where they got the plays by special wire The fans stood ready if he won to set the town on fire."

Now Hagan twirled his body on the truest corkerow plan, And hurled a swift inshoot that cut the corner of the plate. Casey thought the first ball pitched would surely be a ball And didn't try to strike it, to the great disgust of all."

Again the Frogtown twirler figured good on Mudville's pride. "He thinks the next will be an 'out' instead of going wide." He just shot through a straight one to the centre of the plate, And Casey waited for a curve until it was too late."

And now the mighty slugger is a-hanging on the string. If another good one came over it was up to him to swing. And Hagan saw this jaunty smile had faded from his face And a look of flaming agony was there to take its place."

One moment Hagan pauses, hides the ball between his glove. And then, he drives it from him with a sweeping longarm above. And now the air is rent in twain because the slugger slipped, For Casey, mighty Casey, hadn't figured on the spit."

with the quadrangular infatuation which rose between the parties to the affair. "The Liberals had nothing to do with Mrs. Mattern accompanying the McPhersons during the election campaign or on their holiday trip to Victoria."

"The Liberals had nothing to do with Mrs. Cora McPherson's trip to Saskatoon nor did they send Leroy Mattern after her nor did they employ detectives to spy on her actions."

"The Liberals had nothing to do with the cuckooery alleged to have taken place in the McPherson home. "The Liberals had nothing to do with Mrs. McPherson's subsequent marriage to Mrs. Helen Mattern."

"The Liberals had nothing to do with Mr. McPherson's denial of a fair living allowance to his former wife. "The Liberals, as an organized political party had nothing to do with the whole matter from start to finish."

"It is true that Mrs. Cora McPherson's lawyers in the recent case were all Liberals. For all the Observer knows it may be equally true that the contributions made to enable the case to be carried on came from professed Liberals. But the Liberals, as we all know, had no more to do with the case than any other party in Alberta. Calling the Liberals names or blaming them for Mrs. McPherson's troubles does not alter the essential facts of the case."

"The Observer will go further and say that even if the Liberals as an organization had taken up Mrs. Cora McPherson's case they would have been justified. It is the part of good citizens to see to it that the public and private lives of its cabinet ministers shall be above reproach."

"The Observer wonders just how the Holy Writings of the U.P.A. can explain the affair. The U.P.A., as we all know, makes much higher professions of unblemished morality and unflinching goodness than the Grigs and Tories have ever ventured to claim. The McPherson case with its nasty implications seems to put the U.P.A. on the spot?"

GIGANTIC BATTLE AGAINST BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

Over 1,000,000 tuberculin tests were conducted on cattle in Canada during the past year. It was stated by Dr. G. H. Hilton, veterinary director-general of the department of agriculture. At least 1,000,000 cattle will be tested this year and between 10,000 and 15,000 new herds added. With Canada's cattle population approximately 9,000,000 and her milch cow population approximately 4,000,000, the number of the total, the battle to free Canadian herds from tuberculosis is a gigantic one.

The department is discontinuing altogether this year compensating farmers whose cattle react to the test if they are under the municipal tubercular order. However, under the other policies the compensation will be paid as heretofore.

The object of the department is not primarily to protect the health of the public by this battle against bovine tuberculosis. The protection of the health of the people is a provincial and municipal matter. It is for the provincial and municipal authorities to see that milk and milk products free from tubercular germs, are provided to the consumer of the Dominion.

These authorities are responsible that the pasteurization is effective and ampure milk kept from the public.

The primary object of the agricultural department is to "reduce the economic losses in livestock because of tuberculosis."

When the fight against bovine tuberculosis first started in this country, it was in what were known as supervised herds. In this the government tested the herds but did not pay any compensation for the cattle that were weeded out. That is still in force and nearly 20,000 herds will be dealt with this summer.

Then came the municipal plan in 1914. Under it a municipality took steps to insure that all the milk sold within its borders was from tubercular-free herds. The government sold to the corporation making the application. Some 28 municipalities originally went into the scheme and the government tested the herds. The farmers were compensated for loss of the reactors.

For some time it has been felt that this was a very ineffective method of fighting the disease and very expensive. Accordingly some eight or nine years ago the department decided to carry on with the municipalities already in the scheme but to accept no more applications. Now, however, the entire scheme has been dropped in favor of the restricted area plan, the accredited herd plan and the supervised herds."

One of the arguments against the municipal plan was that only herds supplying a certain municipality would be tested. All around it were cattle in herds not so tested. The owner of the tested herd was continuing to replace milkers in his herd with milkers he bought elsewhere. The result was that the herds would not stay free of the disease and the number of animals which had to be slaughtered was great with a correspondingly heavy compensation bill for the government with very little progress."

Under the restricted area plan however entire areas are cleared of tubercular cows and county after county has gone in for this plan with its compensations.

The accredited herd plan, an international agreement whereby herds with purebred animals for sale are tested and compensation given for animals destroyed will remain in force.

Writing on the subject "Some Common Beliefs That Are False," in the New Outlook, a professor quotes the results of his investigation concerning some of the superstitions about the weather. It is rather too bad to thus debunk the legends which have grown up and which are accepted almost gospel truth by many citizens, some of them being as follows: "If a cat sneezes, rain is coming; if a dog eats grass in the morning, bad weather or will follow. Other signs of rain said to be infallible are when dogs dig holes in the ground, howl when they leave the house, or refuse to eat meat. If the bull goes to the pasture before the other cattle, rain is near. If the cattle lie down early in the day, kick their forefeet, scratch against posts, or look up at the sky while lowing—all these mean rain. Cold weather all these mean rain. Cold weather is said to be indicated by cows falling glass of orange juice daily."

"CLEANLINESS IS NEXT TO GODLINESS"

On an occasion when John Wesley remarked that "Cleanliness is next to godliness," one of his audience retorted: "It is also next to impossibility." This answer was true, because for the majority of people at that time, the facilities for washing and bathing were very limited.

We today accept, as a matter of course, that our homes should be equipped with bathtubs, wash-basins and laundry tubs. We expect to turn taps which will supply us with an abundance of pure hot and cold water. These conveniences, which to us are nothing unusual, are comparatively modern. The year 1845 saw the first bath-tub installed in North America. The use of the bath-tub was frowned upon as it was considered to be evidence of a physical decadence of the people, catering too much to the pleasure-loving side of life. This past attitude might be borne in mind by those who, today, oppose the introduction of physical comforts and labor-saving devices into the home. It was about the same period that one hundred thousand coal-pan pipes were abolished in London, and houses were connected with the common sewers.

There is not nowadays much excuse for us to be dirty. There are still too many homes lacking the facilities for cleanliness which should be provided in every home but, in general, it may be said that most of us can be clean if we want to be clean.

Cleanliness is important because of its aesthetic value, its effect upon the mental outlook of the person, and because certain forms of cleanliness are of real importance in the prevention of communicable diseases.

A clean skin improves the personal appearance. A clean skin adds to personal comfort and allows the skin to function better as a protective covering and as the heat regulator of the body. Odors arising from an unclean skin are offensive.

A clean body, together with clean clothing, hair that is neat and finger-nails that are clean and trimmed, give a sense of well-being and a feeling of self-respect which makes social life more pleasant and is an aid in business contacts.

The washing of the hands before eating or preparing food and after using the toilet is a simple habit which plays an important part in the prevention of the communicable diseases. The use of soap and a warm bath at least once a week is one which, under ordinary conditions, keeps the body reasonably clean.

Inside of the body is kept clean by the use of clean foods and pure liquors, by breathing in fresh air, and by daily elimination, which can be secured through regular habit, diet and exercise.

A PARADOX

"It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good." In fact the present system seems to flourish on ill winds. The present joy in the wheat market (at the time of writing) recalls a statement made last December by Mr. McFarland, the Wheat Pool manager, that "unless Providence intervened through crop failure, success could not attend our efforts." It is typical of the present system that should call upon Providence to extend a blighting hand upon the fields of our neighbors, and that its banquets should always include the potato bug and the boll weevil—Labor News.

Constipation and Biliousness Caused By a Sluggish Liver

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your health suffers. Your bowels become constipated, you get sick and bilious, headaches, the tongue becomes coated, the breath smells, and before the eyes, and the system generally upset. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills stimulate the sluggish liver and restore the flow of bile so that it will act properly on the bowels. Once you use them you cannot help but be satisfied with the results. ## THIRTY-THIRD PSALM, INDIAN SING VERSION

The Great Father above is a Shepherd Chief. I am His, and with Him I want not.

He throws out to me a rope, and the name of the rope is love, and He drives me to where the grass is green and the water not dangerous, and I eat and lie down satisfied.

Sometimes my heart is very weak and falls down, but He lifts it up again and draws me into a good road. His name is wonderful.

Some time, it may be very soon, when I no longer, it may be a long time, He will draw me into a place between mountains. It is dark there, but I'll draw back not. I'll be there for it is the place between mountains that the Shepherd Chief will meet me, and the hunger I have felt in my heart all through my life will be satisfied. Sometimes He makes the love rope into a whip, but afterwards He gives me a staff to lean on.

He spreads a table before me with all kinds of food. He puts His hand upon my head and all the "fears" is gone. My cup He fills till it runs over.

What I fear is that I will not see these roads that are "away ahead" will stay with me through this life, and afterwards I will go to live in the "Big Trees" and sit down with the Shepherd Chief forever.

Here and There

Indications point to a fairly early harvest in Western Canada, says a late July weekly crop report of the Canadian Pacific Railway agricultural department. A few points in southern Manitoba, the report added, had already started cutting wheat and barley.

Canada jumped to fourth place in bacon exports to Great Britain last May as compared with sixth place in 1932, behind Denmark, Holland and Poland. Total exports to Great Britain from Canada in May were 5,566,000 lbs. or at the rate of $6,000,000 lbs. per annum.

There were increased retail sales in Canada in May as compared with April and the index number of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics rose from 83.7 to 85.6. Hardware had the best showing, the increase being from 75.8 to 112.3.

A spare blue-clad figure which to thousands of passengers through Vancouver in the past seven years represented a symbol of friendship in a strange city will no more be seen around the wharves and terminals of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the Coast city since Albert Charles Pearsall, terminal passenger agent for the company, died there recently.

With rising prices for wool and a vast Chinese market for wheat caused partly by advantageous monetary exchange, Australia is rising steadily to a greatly improved economic position, declared Warwick Fairfax, managing director of the Sydney Morning Herald, Australia's oldest newspaper, a traveller recently on the Canadian Australasian liner Niagara.

Meeting at a time when the nations of the world were never so much in need of close co-operation economically and politically, the fifth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations to be held at the Banff Springs Hotel, August 14-28, is regarded as a possible turning point in the affairs of all the nations bordering the Pacific.

Self-regulation of motion pictures by producers to conform with ordinary standards of decency will ultimately render borders of censors unnecessary, predicted Will H. Hays, Czar of Hollywood, interviewed recently at Vancouver where he arrived from a short stay at Banff and Lake Louise. Clark Gable was another movie star visitor at these famous mountain resorts.

All Ontario district brother officers of Norman M. McMillan, superintendent, Bruce Division, Canadian Pacific Railway, with H. C. Groat, general superintendent, as chairman, took part recently in a presentation to Mr. McMillan of a silver tea and coffee service, at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on the occasion of his promotion as assistant to H. J. Humphrey, general manager, eastern lines of the railway.

Unheralded, unrecognized and unexpected, Mrs. Franklin D. Canadians who have become accus- tomed to hearing politicians and other speakers dwell upon the dominion's illimitable natural resources will get a rather rude awakening to be told that such is not the case. C. M. Campbell writing in Maclean's Magazine, declares that in the matter of natural resources Canada is "a low grade country." He classifies as "ninety-five per cent make-believe" the assertion that Canada possesses one-sixth of the coal resources of the world. The stories as to Canada's iron deposits are also he says, gross exaggerations. As to the precious metals, he points out that an eighty-mile stretch on the Rand in South Africa produces approximately the same value in mineral products as all Canada, and further that Great Britain normally produces as much coal as to equal in value the entire mineral production of South Africa, Canada, India, Australia, and all the other parts of the British Empire.

If this comes as a shock to our readers, they are due for another shock in the statement by H. M. Cassidy, B.A., Ph.D., that Canada during the past decade has had as many unemployed in proportion to population as has Great Britain. Cassidy has had for many years unemployment insurance, and therefore readers are told every once in a while how many are on "the dole" in that land. Similar statistics have not been as accurately kept or are not as well known in Canada, yet Prof. Cassidy, in his book on the following rather startling statement: "During the seven years 1923-1929 (a period of remarkable prosperity, on the whole) it is probable that on the average at least 10 per cent of our non-agricultural workers were idle because they could find no jobs. During the same period, about 11 per cent of the twelve million workers protected by unemployment insurance were unemployed in Great Britain. on the average.—Hawker Post.

THE BOY WHO DIDN'T PASS
A sad-faced little fellow sits alone in deep despair:
There's a jump arising in his throat and tears drop down his cheeks,
He's wandered from his playmates, for he doesn't want to hear
Their shouts of merry laughter since the world has lost its cheer,
He has sipped the cup of sorrow, he has drained the bitter glass,
And his heart is fairly breaking—he's the boy who didn't pass.

In the apple tree the robin sings a cheery little song,
But the doesn't seem to hear it, showing plainly something's wrong;
Comes his faithful little spaniel for a romp and bit of play,
But the troubled little fellow bids him sternly go away.

And alone he sits in sorrow, with his hair a tangled mess,
And his eyes are red with weeping—he's the boy who didn't pass.

Oh, you boast a laughing son, and speak of him as bright,
And you who love a little girl who comes to you at night
With shining eyes and dancing feet, with honors from her school,
Turn to that lonely little lad who thinks he is a fool,
And take kindly by the hand, the duldest of his class,
He is the one who most needs love—the boy who didn't pass.

YOUR DOG AND HOT WEATHER
Be sure your dog gets lots of clean fresh water in the hot weather. He gets just as thirsty in the hot weather as you and I do. Be careful of his diet; the dog does not need such heavy food in the summer as other times of the year. Remember that if your dog is to be kept happy and good tempered, you must look after him an adequate necessary steps to rid him of all things which might make him uncomfortable or unpleasant. Your dog sweats through his tongue, not through his skin as you do. Let your dog froth and slobber at the mouth, it's good for him, and the more he does it the better. You can bathe your dog as often as you like in the summer time, but be sure that you keep him out of a draft until perfectly dry. Be sure to brush his coat every day, this lessens the tendency towards any skin ailments that develop as a result of the heat.

During the month of June the sales of branded beef in all Canada amounted to 3,188,48 lbs. The total for the first six months of this year was 16,105,028, an increase of 5,322,073 lbs. compared with the corresponding period of last year.

WETASKIWIN GOLF TOURNAMENT AUGUST 13TH AND 14TH

Wetaskiwin's sixth annual golf tournament will be held on Sunday and Monday, August 13th and 14th, and entries are to be in the hands of R. E. Schmitz not later than 8:30 a.m. on the morning of August 13th. A prize will be given for the qualifying round of eighteen holes, and a cup and two prizes will be given for the championship flight. The good prizes will also be given for the consolation (championship flight), first flight consolation (first flight), second flight, consolation (second flight), third flight, and consolation (third flight). The course is in first class condition this year, and the tournament promises to be among the best ever held in Wetaskiwin.

HOCKEY PLAYER AND BRIDE SPENDING SUMMER IN DISTRICT

Mr. and Mrs. August ("Gus") to U.S. Marker of Detroit and Tulsa are here to spend the summer with the Marker family, Camrose east. They motored up from Tulsa a few days ago, leaving the thermometer standing at 108 degrees above, so we are not "so hot" after all. Gus was with the Tulsa Oilers' hockey club for three seasons and last year went to Detroit for his first season in big-time circles. He was with the Olympics at the finish. Three Olympic club (International) and the Red Wings club (National) are both under the same management. When Marker went down to report he was one of forty men who went into training with the two clubs. He started out brilliantly and Detroit sport writers gave him a big hand. However, other and more experienced players gradually ousted the younger man, but "Gus" is quite philosophical about the whole season and figures the experience he got in sitting on the side-lines and watching the veterans of the game at work will stand him in good stead. He is confident that he can make a place for himself—Canadian. August is a former Wetaskiwin boy and started playing hockey here as a mere kid.

UNDONING GOOD WORK

It takes a bit of wisdom to economize wisely. The action of some school boards throughout the country recalls the old adage, "Penny wise, pound foolish." There is a tendency to overlook the good work that has been done by faithful and highly efficient teachers and for the sake of saving a little salary to engage young and untried teachers to do the work of experienced ones. In this way the work of building up a school over a period of years is practically undone overnight.

SOAP SUDS

"I suppose," thought Travers, "they are not at home, but having come all this way I may as well make sure."

He had promised old Bill to look up the latter's people on his return to England, and his thoughts of his pal in the wilds of Africa had made him faithful to a promise. But he had pulled an antiquated bell in vain — knocked, hammered, in vain. The old house with its quaint past-century appearance remained silent, unresponsive, so that Travers would have gone away had he not heard from mysterious back regions the sound of a gay laugh.

That laugh matched the spring sunshine, and Jack Travers obeyed an impulse. He walked boldly round to the back premises and stood delighted at an unexpected sight.

A red brick yard, partly covered in a tangle of old-world garden with massed primroses for borders in the background, and there before him a girl standing with tucked skirts before a mighty tub which brimmed with soap suds. Travers noted the daintiness of small feet and ankles, the whiteness of bare arms and the vivid blue of the cotton dress before his gaze became riveted on the yet more vivid little face above the billowing suds.

She wore a quaint Dutch cap from under which bronze curls peeped daintily; her cheeks were flushed and dimpled, lips, eyes, her whole face laughed in gayest and sparkling mirth as from time to time she tossed soap suds in the direction of a most aggrieved Aberdeen terrier.

It was a picture to remain in one's memory, and Travers was a man of impulse. Never again would Fate give him such a chance, since, alas! he had no opportunity for an excuse to visit a laundymaid, so he stood round by a red brick wall and settled Scotch Jock's grievance for him by revenge on his tormentor.

But he had no time to bestow a second kiss on those fragrant, laughing lips, since the girl, in a whirl of mocking indignation, had plunged down snowy arms into her tub and smothered him with soap suds.

Was there ever so tempestuous a rout such cruel retaliation. Yet the avenger only stood laughing, still tears hung on back lashes as she watched a tall hero standing there in the sunshine shaking himself free of suds, which went scudding away on a frolicsome breeze like spume flung by a wave.

I won't be answerable for Jack's language, since the suit was new and soap suds greasy also he had taken an involuntary mouthful of the same.

Little Dutch-cap stood with one hand on her tub still laughing. She knew who had had the best of that bargain and Scotch Jock barked in joyous chorus.

Jack Travers did not laugh, though too late he regretted not having done so. But we all know when too late what would have been the best thing to do and say. So instead of trying to take another kiss on the principle of a penny-worth being no worse than a pound's worth, he retreated, leaving all the honors of war to the damsel of the soap suds.

Of course, it was impossible now to call on the Hilders even if they were at home. Wet and dilapidated, the young man went his way, and Dutch-cap after him, who was following to see him well off the premises, returned to her suds, her song and Scotch Jock.

Travers wrote to Mrs. Hilders regretting that he had missed them, and Mrs. Hilders wrote back to say she and her daughter were coming to Hartford next week, which would be quite near to Mr. Travers' home, and she hoped they would meet.

Travers was not sure that he should wish since — or — a laundymaid would not be visiting Hartford.

And then — it was the wholly unexpected that happened and Travers felt at first that he must have made a mistake, he was seeing double — or — there was a double somewhere about. He was standing near the doorway of Mrs. Sarberly-Cox's ballroom, and a girl who had been talking to a partner near suddenly turned and looked at him.

It was the damsel of the soap suds!

There are some faces which we cannot mistake, however different the setting in which we see them. In place of a Dutch cap the erstwhile laundress wore a Juliet cap with tiny pearl beads which contrasted with a mass of bronze curls, whilst white satin and corals took the place of a blue cotton frock; but the eyes were the same, the dimples the same, the lips the same. And to clinch the whole argument concerning doubles, the damsel in question held out her hand.

"Mr. Travers," she said, with astounding bravado, "I think we have met before. May I introduce my cousin and fiancé, Captain Hilders."

Travers shook hands and bowed like a man stunned by shock. Of course, he realized that this must be Bill's sister — Kitty Hilders. And he had mistaken her for a kitchen lass! Yet, paramount over his shame was the added disgust that that lank fellow with red hair and freckles should be the fiancée of such perfection.

"Last time I met Mr. Travers," Captain Hilders went on the audacious Miss Hilders, "I was washing. You know I did all the work whilst we were at the college, excepting for Sally's help, and Mr. Travers called when I was elbow deep in soap suds. Do you remember those soap suds, Mr. Travers?"

"Of course I do — a pleasant memory. Will you give me the next dance I want to hear about — your Aberdeen terrier?"

Captain Hilders strolled off in search of another partner and Jack Travers was given his dance.

"I want to hear about Bill," explained Kitty, gaily. "And Scotch Jock sends his respects and agrees with you about the soap suds!"

She had no shame at all.

Jack Travers moralized on his way home over the audacity of girls. But he called next day at the Hilders, and Kitty asked him if he would teach her to fish.

"Bill has told us all about your love of sport," she said, "and I want to learn how to throw a fly."

Travers nearly suggested that Charlie Hilders would make a better teacher, but refrained because he realized he should rather like the job himself. Bill had been so keen that he should see a good deal of his people.

Kitty Hilders, in blue golf coat and cap, looked adorable. At least, had she not been engaged to another fellow, Jack Travers would have thought she looked adorable. As it was, he wondered how she could see in that lanky, freckled chap who looked like an overgrown schoolboy.

He wondered the more and more whilst he perfected Miss Dutch-cap in the gentle art of angling. She was not a particularly apt pupil, being too fond of talking — she wanted to hear all about Bill, tobacco growing, and many things that did not interest Jack in the least. But he rather enjoyed the picnic-teas they indulged in on the river bank. Kitty was a baby over cake, and adored chocolates.

At first Travers had wondered whether Sandy-head (as he called the unfortunate Hilders) would object to another fellow offering chocolates to his girl, but a first gift proved so great a success that he had tried others. Only it annoyed him ridiculously when he saw Sandy-head devouring those peppermint creams.

It was not till within a week of his return to Africa that Travers made a hideous discovery.

He had fallen in love with Dutch-cap. Curious how he still called her that, still more — or less curious that his thoughts dwelt long and tenderly on that occasion of a first meeting. He could have endured a dozen tubs full of soap suds now for sake of — sake of —

"It's no use," groaned Jack. "I've been a fool and a cad. I must clear."

With the brusqueness of a man announcing what he feels only concerns himself, he told Dutch-cap that that occasion of a first meeting. He could have endured a dozen tubs full of soap suds now for sake of — sake of —

Kitty nearly dropped her fishing rod, but all she said was, "Oh! really!"

It was not a successful day's sport and Travers had to go home early. They said good-bye on the river bank, and Travers felt as if he were going to face miseries little short of hanging.

It was "Fare thee well, and if ever, then fare thee well." And, when they met again, his exquisite little lady of the soap suds would be gaily Mrs. Hilders, wife to a freckled Sandy-head!

Travers felt awful, so awful that he never asked himself what Dutch-cap felt — he couldn't have supposed she felt anything since she actually loved that — or —

Travers strode up the river bank in the proverbial despair of a man who has to give up what never belonged to him. But, as he went, Fate placed in his way that same Scotch Jock who did not like soap suds. Scotch Jock hurt his paw, and looked to Travers for sympathy, so, picking up the limping animal, he carried him back to where, no doubt, Kitty would be eating her tea in solitude. But she was doing nothing of the kind. She lay on the grass, face downwards, and she was crying.

Travers put Scotch Jock down so hastily that that dignified quad reared upon its hind legs, then he went round to Kitty's side. His first idea was that she had hurt herself, his second —

"Oh, Jack," sobbed Dutch-cap, quite unaware who knelt beside her, "What a brute I was — and — oh, Jack, you must come back, because — I — I want you so."

The shade of Sandy-head faded amongst the trees. Travers utterly ignored the fact that it had ever been there. He had a clear vision of a small face now, of quivering lips, of drenched blue eyes and tangled curls, so — so —

There was not even the shadow of a dimple's invitation, but he kissed her. Yes, and kissed her again, though it was a mean advantage, since she had no tub of soap suds handy. But I don't be-

MUCH DEPENDS ON TEACHER

The "little red schoolhouse" is not yet extinct. A recent survey shows that 60 per cent of the public school buildings in use today in the United States are of the one-room variety. In Canada, the percentage is even higher. And probably the children in them get a pretty fair education. The odds are not wholly in favor of the fine, graded city schools. More depends upon the teacher than upon the school.

LOW PRICE INDEED

"Can you imagine!" cried Estelle the waitress. "That fellow I waited on just now said hogs were five dollars now. Did that mean five dollars each?"

"No," replied Tillie, the cashier, "that's five dollars a hundred, of course."

"Him!" No wonder farmers are kicking," sighed Estelle. "Imagine, only a nickel apiece for pigs."

DID YOU EVER NOTICE

Did you ever pause in a post office long enough to take a squint at this floor after a number of people have received their mail? If you have you were probably struck by the number of circulars, form letters and hand bills that litter it up. In truth, you doubtless were impressed with the fact that many of them had been thrown on the floor as soon as they were removed from the envelopes, the recipients not even taking the trouble to give them a second glance. But did you ever notice that you didn't see anyone throwing the newspapers, and especially the home-town paper, in the waste basket or on the floor?

Well, right there is a mighty good argument in favor of advertising in the newspapers. The hometown paper goes into the home. Remember this and spend your advertising money accordingly.—Blairmore Enterprise.

Bowel Complaints of Children
During the Summer Months

Mothers should look well after their children during the hot summer months. Despite all they can do the children may be seized, at any time, with diarrhea, dysentery, summer complaint, or other forms of bowel trouble.

There is a safe remedy in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; a remedy that has received the endorsement of legions of Canadian mothers during the 88 years it has been on the market. Don't experiment. Get "Dr. Fowler's" and be on the safe side.
